National Guard Called To Quell Riot

AUBURN PRISON BUILDINGS BURN; SHOOTING HEARD

One Man Known Dead; Report Warden Held As Prisoner

WIFE OF OFFICIAL MAY ALSO BE HELD

Additional Troops Ready To Depart To Scene Of Conflict

BULLETIN
Albany, Dec. 11.—Warden Edgar Jennings, who was held hostage by fifteen convicts who rioted at Auburn prison today, was rescued this afternoon after state troopers had hurled tear bombs into the prison, scene of the rioting. Warden Jennings was not shot, as was first reported, but he was slightly gassed. Two others were killed.

BULLETIN
Syracuse, N. Y., Dec. 11.—With the gates of Auburn prison wide open, a company of state troopers stood on watch ready to shoot down any convicts who attempt to make a break for liberty.
This was the situation this afternoon as desperate criminals headed a revolt.
The fifteen prisoners, barricaded in the main hall just off the warden's office were holding twelve guards and Warden Edgar S. Jennings as hostages.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 11.—Acting Governor Herbert Lehman ordered national guard troops to the state prison at Auburn today following receipt of word that a riot had broken out, that the principal keeper had been slain and that the warden was being held hostage by 15 convicts who had started a revolt.
The acting governor instructed Franklin Ward, head of the national guard, to order all companies from Syracuse, and other nearby cities, to proceed at once to the scene and surround the prison.
Two companies at Auburn are on the scene, it was reported.

One Man Slain
Best information at Auburn was that the principal keeper had been slain and that the warden was being held hostage. Two shops were said to be in flames. Information came here to the effect that shots were heard inside the enclosed grounds.

The warden, Edgar S. Wallace, who is being held in his office by the convicts, had taken precautions to prevent just such an outbreak. Considerable publicity followed a revolt in Auburn prison last summer.

Since then there has been discussion how to meet such a contingency were it to arise again. The national guard troops at Auburn were cognizant with conditions and they were apprised of the method of procedure that would be adopted in the event of another outbreak. It was believed the Auburn guardsmen reached the scene shortly after the revolt started.

Firearms Used
Firearms evidently had been smuggled into the prison. Precautions against firearms had been taken following the outbreak of last summer. At that time the convicts seized guns that had been stored within the enclosure. Since then all arms have been kept outside the prison walls.

The national guardsmen rushed to the scene were part of the 108th infantry.
Fifteen prisoners led the outbreak, according to best available information. Their action was concerted. Just what their method of procedure was had not been reported in information from Auburn to Albany. There were 1,580 convicts quartered at the Auburn prison.

Mrs. Jennings, the warden's wife, may also be a prisoner. One report here was that she had been locked up in her home which is on the prison grounds.

Police Baffled In Brutal Murder Of Pretty Teacher

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 11.—Completely baffled by an absence of clues which might lead to solution of the murder of Miss Cordelia Gummshesheimer, high school language teacher, authorities today prepared to question her students in the hope that a classroom grudge might have prompted the slaying.

Working now on the clue that the brutal slaying may have been the work of a youth who failed in one of her language courses, police prepared to examine her class records and question a number of possibilities.

The district attorney's office has appealed to the American consul at Havana to trace Nicolai Diaz, said to have been an ardent admirer of the girl when she taught school in Porto Rico.

Police found a number of letters from Diaz in the girl's apartment where her body was found in bed Sunday evening, the skull crushed in by blows of a heavy piece of gas pipe.

Dr. Floyd Leach, the lone suspect arrested in the case, was released under threat of habeas corpus proceedings.

Dr. Leach, former Hollywood dentist, who was found living in a hotel on the outskirts of the city, was released to relatives who said he would be placed in the care of a psychiatrist.

Death Toll of Recent Storm Mounts To 175

HIGH WATERS IN LONDON MENACE

Seventy Ships Sunk In Storm; Fear More Damage

London, Dec. 11.—With the devastation caused by the week-long storms which took a toll of at least 175 lives and 70 ships, hardly calculated Western Europe prepared itself for the appearance of new gales expected to hit England and the western coast of the continent some time today.

Even a lull in the fury of the storm yesterday was not without its calls for aid from shipping. The two latest victims of the storm to report themselves in precarious straits were the British steamer, Londerly and the British steamer, Malabar, bound from Philadelphia to London.

Send S. O. S. Call
The Londerly sent out an S. O. S. call from a point within 10 miles of Calais. The Malabar reported it had lost its rudder and was attempting to proceed with an improvised fin.

Meanwhile the flooded condition of the Upper Thames was causing considerable anxiety here. All London embankments were being strengthened to prevent a repetition of the disastrous flood of January, 1928.

Heavy rains have flooded the River Wey which runs into the Thames to such an extent that thousands of acres have been inundated. Oxford and West Oxford (Continued on Page 5)

Cash Transferred From Vaults Of Treasury Into Pockets Of Public For Holiday Shopping

Washington, Dec. 11.—Cash was moving rapidly out of the treasury vaults today—into the public's pockets where it will pause just long enough to finance the annual Christmas spending jamboree, and to be transmuted into holiday cheer.

Experts said the increase in the volume of actual cash in use between the end of September and the night before Christmas was expected to be about $300,000,000 this year.

That would mean at the maximum circulation period of the year of approximately $5,200,000,000 in "hard goods" would be in the hands of the public, or outside the treasury and the federal reserve banks. Circulation at the end of November was $4,925,500,000, or $40.95 per capita.

In connection with the Christmas present season the treasury will issue to the federal reserve banks for general distribution about $3,250,000 in "quarter-eagles" within a few days. The $2.50 gold pieces are widely used as Christmas presents, although they soon find their way back to the treasury ready for re-issue again New Years.

Expect Large Increase
Officials estimated about $400,000,000 over the normal circulation will be required this year to finance the Christmas season. From the end of September until December 25 there is a steady increase in circulation. The boost gets a decided acceleration at the Thanksgiving period, receding slightly until the end of November and then starts rapidly upward. There is a material increase with the payment of Christmas savings accounts about the middle of the month.

DUAL TRAGEDY SHOCKS BOSTON SOCIAL CIRCLES

New York City Scene Of Murder And Suicide

PRINCIPALS WERE HIGHLY RESPECTED

Love Seen As Reason For Action Of Veteran

New York, Dec. 11.—Because they could neither dim the flame of their love nor shatter the fetters of marriage which kept them apart, it was believed today, Henry Grew Crosby, 32, and Mrs. Josephine Rotch Bigelow, 23, both of socially prominent Boston families, chose death to the unhappiness of separation.

Crosby, a son of Stephen Van Rensselaer Crosby of Boston, was a nephew of the late J. P. Morgan. He was listed in the Boston social directory, and was known as a poet and was a Harvard graduate of the class of 1922. Mrs. Bigelow was the wife of Albert S. Bigelow, a post-graduate student at Harvard, and the daughter of Mrs. Arthur G. Rotch of Boston.

When their bodies were found last night in the Hotel Des Artistes apartment of a friend, Stanley Mortimer, Jr., no clues were found to indicate why, as the police believe, Crosby shot Mrs. Bigelow and then turned his weapon upon himself.

Form Tragic Picture

There was only the tragic picture of a pretty, young woman with a bullet hole in her left temple, her shoulders on the left arm of a man who clutched a Belgian 25 automatic pistol in his right hand and had a bullet hole in his right temple.

There was to be an autopsy today, but Dr. Charles Norris, medical examiner, has already described the tragedy as the result of a suicide pact and the police have concurred in this belief.

Disbar Lindsey

BEN B. LINDSEY, international lawyer known lecturer, former juvenile court judge in Denver, and advocate of "companionate marriage" was disbarred from practicing law in Colorado by the state supreme court. The disbarment proceedings against Lindsey were an outgrowth of his acceptance of money received from Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes and Samuel Untermeyer, New York attorney, in connection with the settlement of a large fortune upon the two children of Mrs. Stokes from the estate of their father, the late W. E. D. Stokes, New York millionaire hotel owner.

Fatal Shooting Of Man Occurs During Quarrel On Street

Christy Bazaras Dies In Salem Hospital From Wounds Sustained from Revolver Held by George Nick; Accusations

Christy Bazaras, 37, died in Salem city hospital at 6:55 p. m. Tuesday from gunshot wounds inflicted by George Nick following an argument in front of the Nick home in Lisbon. Bazaras, a railroad worker, was also a Lisbon resident.

Following the shooting, Nick walked to the office of Mayor Robert B. Clark, of Lisbon, threw his empty gun on the desk and told the mayor of the shooting. He was immediately confined in the Lisbon city jail.

Nick was arraigned before Justice of the Peace M. K. Zimmerman in Lisbon today and bound over to the January grand jury on a charge of murder.

He entered a plea of guilty, was denied bond, and returned to prison.

Bazaras, according to his own story, was enroute to a Lisbon grocery to purchase bread when he passed the Nick home. Nick is said to have walked across the street and accused Bazaras of being intimate with his wife, Bessie, who is the mother of eight children.

Officials Study Cause Of Blaze In Movie Studio

Ten Were Killed; 17 Injured In Blaze Tuesday

FAILED TO HEED FIRE DEPARTMENT

Place Blame On Lamp, Velvet Curtain; Other Causes Scanned

New York, Dec. 11.—Armed with only the garbled stories of eyewitnesses and information gleaned from the blackened wreckage, officials of the district attorney's office and the police and fire marshals today renewed their investigation into the fire which swept the Pathe Manhattan film studio.

The lives of ten and injury to seventeen others was the toll. None of the officials was able today to definitely fix the cause of the blaze.

Stories from witnesses ranged from the belief a glowing drop of carbon from an arc lamp ignited a velvet drop curtain to a carelessly tossed cigarette and a short circuit.

Sprinklers Were Advocated
Fire Chief John Kenon declared today whatever the cause, it might not have been so disastrous had an order for a sprinkler system, issued by the fire department last May, been obeyed. Because of a law which makes such protection obligatory only when more than five reels of film are in storage, the order was not fulfilled.

Officials of the fire department were unanimous in the opinion that additional fire prevention legislation was badly needed to take care of the changes in the motion picture industry, due to the sound pictures.

Investigators expressed the belief the most likely cause of the fire was the possibility of a drop of carbon from an arc light igniting the curtain which served as a backdrop for the song and dance scenes which were to be filmed, such a light was located on a platform above the curtain when the fire broke out.

Study Cigaret Theory
The lighted cigarette theory is being studied despite the testimony of all witnesses so far examined that no one was smoking on the stage when the flames were first noticed.

Another factor which aided the flames in exacting their heavy toll was the admission of studio employees they sought to subdue the flames by their own efforts before sounding an alarm.

It was learned a fire had occurred two weeks ago in another part of the studio when a velvet curtain became ignited by contact with an overheated incandescent lamp. The flames were put out by an electrician.

BATTILING THE LAKES

Seamanship on the Great Lakes is seldom taken with the seriousness which it deserves. An important reason for this is the popularity of salt water fiction and the glamor which has surrounded the sea since men first started to use it for travel. The Great Lakes have received but little publicity of this nature. James Fenimore Cooper refers to them in his tales of pioneer adventure, but with characteristic disregard of detail his descriptions are notable only as imaginary wonders.

There are a thousand miles of navigation between Duluth and Buffalo, supporting an immense tonnage, a great merchant marine, and vast shipbuilding and shipping interests. The economic importance of the Great Lakes is almost inestimable, yet because they are fresh water bodies, they have failed to stir the imagination. It is difficult to believe that it requires as much seamanship to handle the passenger boats and gondola-like freighters as it does to handle an ocean liner. In many cases, however, it is merely the difference between handling one kind of automobile and another under similar conditions.

Every year when the early winter gales sweep down from Canada over the Great Lakes the hardihood and bitterness of service on the inland seas are demonstrated. One maritime epic after another is added to the long roll of lake history. Five men died recently in the freezing seas off Au Sable Point, on the southern shore of Lake Superior. Another crew was taken off a freighter piled up on the Duck Island reefs in Lake Ontario. The rescue called for all the courage and seamanship required on salt water, but details are scarce. Perhaps it is because such occurrences are too common.

The first ship ever to navigate the lakes—LaSalle's forty-five ton Griffon—was lost with all hands in the autumn gale of 1679. The first steamer, the Walk-in-the-Water of 1818, which took thirteen days between Buffalo and Detroit, was piled up on the southern shore of Lake Erie, but all her people were saved. Crews of other ships have been less fortunate, many of them being lost within sight of shore after their ships became weighted down with ice and foundered or became unmanageable and broke up on the shore.

Many ships have been lost without trace. The Chicora, a passenger steamer from St. Joseph to Chicago, was lost in that way, while the Ban-nockburn's fate was ascertained from a single oar that drifted ashore. Both in the channels and the open lakes the perils of shipping on the Great Lakes are very real. The vast cargoes transported safely show the high quality of seamanship in the Great Lakes sailors.

WHO OWNS ANTARCTICA?

The adventures of Commander Byrd and his hardy company in Antarctica have provided a wealth of very readable news, especially that concerning the flight over the South Pole and the American flag which was dropped there. Does the flag have any significance, other than a symbol of accomplishment? Who owns the South Pole?

Nobody owns the North Pole, although Peary, the American, was the first to reach it. Open, though none too navigable sea surrounds it. There is land at the South Pole, however, and Great Britain claims it. Action of this sort is an old British custom manifest in numerous instances.

Secretary of State Stimson has sent a note to Great Britain advising that the United States does not acquiesce in the British assertion of prior claim to ownership of what, ever lands Commander Byrd might discover. Great Britain made this claim in a note to Washington more than a year ago, and this is the answer.

Her claim is based on the fact that a British explorer reached the South Pole years ahead of Byrd, but a single incident of that nature does not determine the title to an entire continent. The extent and value of Byrd's explorations are factors that must be recognized—factors that will be recognized in the courts in due course of time, if it is ever found necessary to take the matter that far. It may even turn out that there are two continents instead of one and in that case both claimants could be satisfied.

The thought of the temperature of Antarctica is a little depressing at the present time. There is no vegetation, and no life, except sea-birds, fish and whales. Ice barriers shut off all the harbors. Yet beneath the vast ice sheet that covers the region there may be precious metals and coal deposits left there in some bygone period.

No one wants it very much, no warships would be needed to defend it, and there would be no expense of administration, at least for the present. In short, Antarctica looks like a good thing and Secretary Stimson and the State Department have our good wishes for success in keeping it.

In a test flight made at Washington, Lieutenant Apollo Soucek, American altitude record holder, encountered westward winds ranging from 60 to 100 miles an hour, which he holds would cut in half the time now found necessary to fly from the Pacific to the Atlantic. All the speed boys have to do is to mount to 30,000 feet and trust to luck that they may not be carried out into the Atlantic while they aren't looking.

What Others Say

SCHOOL CHILDREN'S PENNIES
Many parents of school children will thank Chester T. Crowell for objecting publicly to any sort of compulsion in connection with savings for school banks. His daughter was kept in after school in a New Jersey suburb because she failed to make an expected deposit. When Mr. Crowell for the sake of principle had his children occasionally decline to bank, the teacher deposited pennies for them "to save the class record." Mr. Crowell has resisted the "100 per cent record" idea in behalf of children who have no money to save and yet are humiliated by nagging.

This type of petty exaction, for it comes to that, is the mean feature of school drives for money, though their purpose may be estimable. If these have any place at all in the schools, the teacher should be instructed to make it perfectly clear that the deposits or contributions are to be voluntary and that the non-subscriber is under no stigma whatever. There is nothing glorious about hectoring boys and girls because they can not or do not want to compete with their school mates in bank savings. Schools that permit it have something to learn about fair play.—New York Herald Tribune.

The Stars Say—

For Thursday, Dec. 12

A very active and interesting day is the forecast based on the lively lunar transits. There should be renewed contractions and agreements to follow close upon long congested conditions breaking up to give way to splendid new opportunities. Personal matters may give concern, and there may be irritable situations to be amiably removed.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a very eventful year to follow upon the removal of long-standing obstacles. Control and caution should be exercised in all personal relations. A child born on this day may be industrious and clever and should succeed; but self-control is enjoined in personal affairs.

GOING THROUGH LIFE IN HIGH IS COSTLY

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
(United States Senator from New York)

There is no doubt that the high tension of modern life has its effect on the health of the public. The emotions are permitted to reach too high a tension.

Yet it is not so much the work we do that tires the body organism. The fatigue results from over-stimulation of the nervous system.

Over-stimulation of the emotions causes nervousness, ill health, digestive disorders, high blood pressure, disturbances of the vital organs, diabetes, goitre, and plenty of other troubles. Perhaps the avoidance of over-stimulation of the emotions is not the most important thing in keeping health.

But it is so important that physicians now are turning their thoughts and study to it as a basic cause of disease. It is a recognized fact that under some conditions "a strong emotion can inflict a physical injury, just as truly as a knife, as Dr. Charles P. Emerson said at a recent meeting of the Indiana University School of Medicine. "Our emotions are kept under such a high tension," he said, "that they cannot fail to fatigue the organs through which the emotions express themselves physically."

And what follows when you are "tired out" from the day's strain on the emotions? Do you spend the night dancing to jazz music? Do you indulge in any other exciting pursuit where your laded nerves are kept taut until all hours of the night?

Living in the world we do, we need rest and quiet to offset the noise and confusion of city life. We must have it to overcome the rush of business, or the effect of the contracts we have in whatever environment we are placed.

We know that mind does react mightily on the functions of the body. The person who is always worrying over this thing and that, the one who holds to anger or fear of things is most surely going to have ill health sooner or later.

Since the time of Hippocrates, physicians have sought to have their patients use their emotions to better their condition. To keep a cheerful state of mind and a bright outlook helps very much toward recovery in many a serious illness. Keeping a calm optimistic attitude and a happy heart does something marvelously curative to the body. To transform an unhappy patient into a happy one causes a distinct chemical change to take place in the entire system. Very soon he finds himself better.

Physicians today are making a profound study of these strange emotions. Never before have they been able to deal with many of their problems so efficiently as now.

Heavy Fighting in China Endangers Lives Of Foreigners

GREAT BRITAIN IN ACTION WITH SHIPS

Censors Withhold News Of Results During Severe Battle

Shanghai, Dec. 11.—With the rebel drive against Nanking, the fleet of President Chiang Kai Shek's government becoming more vigorous hourly, warships of three great powers, Great Britain, Japan and the United States, steamed at top speed to the protection of their nationals in the Yangtze valley.

British cruiser and three destroyers which arrived here from Hong Kong yesterday already have been dispatched from here up the Yangtze river to Nanking. A Japanese cruiser also was enroute to Nanking, while another was expected here today from the Kure naval base where eight other Japanese craft are being held in readiness should the situation in Yangtze valley necessitate their presence.

Meanwhile the American fleet of destroyers, headed by the cruiser, Pittsburgh, was steaming toward this port from Manila. It is expected the American craft will arrive tomorrow.

Heavy fighting between rebels and loyal Nationalist troops was reported in progress at Chushow, about 40 miles northwest of Nanking. The rebels were commanded by General Shih Yu-San. Nationalist reinforcements were dispatched from Nanking to strengthen the Nationalist line at Chushow.

From the number of wounded brought back to Nanking, it was believed the battle was a furious one, but whether or not the Nationalist line held against the rebel onslaughts could not be ascertained owing to strict censorship.

BODY FOUND IN WOMAN'S HOME

Placed In Dwelling By Slaying, Police Believe

Cleveland, Dec. 11.—An autopsy was called today over the bruised and battered body of Kacie Schwartz, 70, which was found by two women stretched upon the floor of their living room when they returned home last night after an absence of less than an hour.

The dead man's body, strange to the women, was mysteriously placed in the home of Mrs. Mary Carnegie and her sister, Mrs. Louise Byrnes, while they were gone to the corner drug store.

Police, who were called by the startled and frightened women, said the man had been dead for some time.

Schwartz, as he was later identified, had been missing since Monday morning when he left his home to deposit $50 in the bank, after which he told his wife, he was going to see his brother, Abraham Schwartz, a tailor.

He failed to return home. It was learned at the bank however, that Schwartz had deposited the money.

The body of the man was found in the home of the two sisters, showed numerous bruises.

OHIO PRISONER HAS SMALLPOX

Columbus Bastille Now Under Quarantine; Vaccinations

Columbus, O., Dec. 11.—With the Franklin county jail under quarantine and 23 of the 183 prisoners vaccinated, county authorities today believed they had checked what might have been a smallpox epidemic within the bastille.

The jail was placed under quarantine late yesterday when it was discovered that Damien Howell, 21, a negro, was suffering from the contagious disease.

Howell, a federal prisoner, was being held on a narcotic charge, and upon discovery of the disease he was placed in the isolation ward at a local hospital.

He said he believed he had contracted the disease in Marion as he had spent several days there immediately prior to his arrest.

The jail will remain under quarantine for 17 days. All prisoners who cannot show evidence of having been vaccinated within the past few years will be subjected to that preventative treatment, it was ordered.

None of the prisoners who occupied the same cell tier as Howell will be allowed to leave the prison until the sequestration period has ended.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

—By Wanda Barton

"The water boiled over and put out the gas." How often do we read of accidents resulting from this all-too-common kitchen mishap? A little saucepan is picked up hurriedly, filled almost to the brim, with the result that at the first minute of boiling it boils over, puts out the gas, and if there isn't plenty of ventilation in the room, serious consequences may follow.

The best insurance against that kind of accident is to keep a nice, rosy teakettle on the stove. Some thing with a four or five-quart capacity. One doesn't ever fill a teakettle so full that it boils over. Half full, slightly more or less perhaps, and then if through some carelessness it is left on the fire too long, the worst that can happen is that the water will evaporate and perhaps the kettle will scorch. But no fatalities! Using any convenient saucepan to heat water is a poor habit for several reasons.

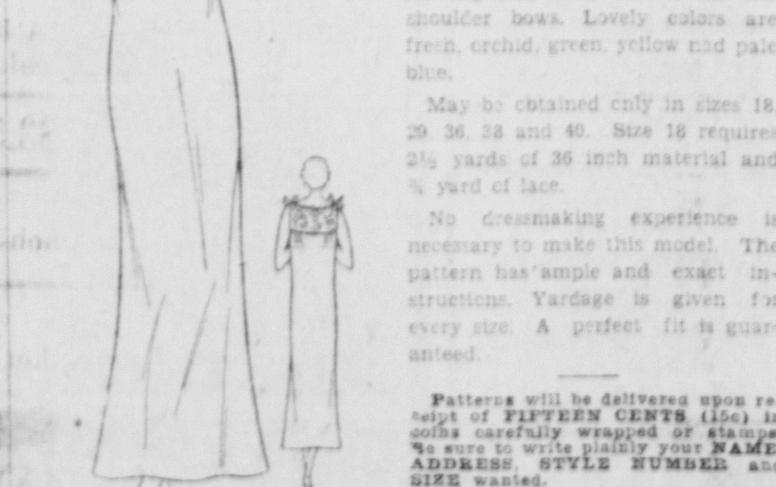

For one thing, the habit is almost invariably to fill it almost to the top—with the attendant hazard of spilling over when it reaches the boiling point.

But also, if one requires absolutely clean fresh water, as for making tea, certainly no utensil should be used other than the kettle which is used for water and never for anything else. The fragrance of tea is preserved in this fashion—for tea and coffee are both highly sensitive to alien odors which may not touch the human senses at all.

The teakettle used to be one of the first items in kitchen equipment and it still is an extremely convenient article that deserves more generous use.

SITUATION IN MINING AREAS DRAWS TENSE

Violent Outbreak Fear Of Authorities; State Troops Out

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 11.—With the strike initiated by the National Miners' Union at Taylorville, spreading to other parts of the Illinois coal belt, the situation today was described as tense.

Sangamon county officers are preparing to deputize additional men to co-operate with the 500 national guardsmen already in the territory.

Militiamen, armed with machine guns, and with bayonets fixed, patrolled the Taylorville area all day yesterday, prepared to subdue any outbreak of violence. Fifty striking miners and a number of women staged a demonstration yesterday as non-strikers attempted to go into the pits.

Two union leaders were arrested last night as they led a group which sought to win the sympathy of and cause a strike among the workers at the Capitol pits, mines located within the Springfield city limits.

The men arrested are Roy Jones, secretary of the local district branch of the National Miners' union of America and Clarence Babb, an organizer.

Jones' following was dispersed by city police without violence on the part of the workers. The police rushed the group and dispersed it hurriedly.

Reinforcements of troops as well as deputized townsmen were thrown about the Peabody mines at Taylorville. All units of the coal company have been shut down.

Capt. W. A. Ross, his crew, and all the passengers aboard the President P.O.K., round-the-world liner, will have no Christmas this year.

Capt. Ross said before he sailed from here yesterday that his ship would reach the 180th meridian, in mid-Pacific on Dec. 24, and on crossing it, would sail right into Dec. 26, with 22 place left for Christmas at all. The 180th meridian is the international date line.

Hoover Hopes to End Aspect of Militarism

Washington, Dec. 11.—Universal peace uppermost in his thoughts and actions, President Hoover has initiated a project that may rid the White House neighborhood of its military atmosphere.

Headquarters of the War Department building, standing in the shadow of the White House on West Executive avenue, is to go.

In this building the secretary of war holds forth, and his uniformed executive officers perform their peace time routine.

In President's View
They come and go always within President Hoover's view, these men whose duty in time of war is to man the guns on the field and the bomb-droppers in the air.

The president cannot be consistent with his thoughts on world peace and his meditations on the success he hopes he will be accomplished in London next January by the five-power conference on naval limitation when he constantly sees the military parading before him cut on Pennsylvania avenue and West Executive ave.

To rid the White House vicinity of its many uniforms is perhaps one of the reasons that prompted Mr. Hoover to ask the War Department that it relinquish its space to the State department. The department quickly acquiesced and a committee was appointed to study the question of erecting a building for the department's needs.

The quarters of the army, including the private office of its general, John J. Pershing, occupies about half the building. The Navy department has a building of its own quite some distance from the executive mansion.

Welcome For Idea
Secretary of State Sumner welcomed the president's action. His department has long been cramped for space with some of its branches functioning in office buildings. The German Claims Commission, the Mexican Claims Commission, the International High Commission and the International High Commission and the Mexican and Canadian Boundary Commission will be united with headquarters under one roof when the Army makes its retreat.

The State Department, once an "orphan," will have eventually a building all to itself. It moved into its present quarters in 1875 after occupying the building which now houses the Washington Orphan Asylum. The department employs 700 clerks, stenographers and clerical here and directs the work of 3,500 officials stationed in foreign countries.

Maj. Gen. B. Frank Cheatham, quarter-master general, Maj. Gen. Charles H. Bridges, adjutant-general, and Brig. Gen. Ewing E. Booth, assistant chief of staff, comprise the committee designated to find a new and permanent "camping grounds" for the War department.

GANDHI AT ODDS WITH SCIENTISTS ON SPIRITUALISM

Takes Issue With Two Famous Britishers On Problem

Ahmedabad, Dec. 11.—Mahatma M. K. Gandhi, philosopher and Indian patriot, takes issue with Sir Oliver Lodge and Conan Doyle on the result of their research into spiritualism.

Gandhi advises that followers of the two Englishmen abandon attempts to communicate with spirits. His reason is an unusual one. Gandhi does not deny the existence of a world of spirits. He holds that attempts to reach them are bad for the mediums and the spirits as well because it keeps them attached to the living earth from whose frailties and weaknesses they should be freed. He says:

"I never received communications from the spirits of the dead. I have no evidence warranting a disbelief in the possibility of such communications. But I do strongly disapprove of holding or attempting to hold such communications.

"A spirit is not necessarily purer because it has become disembodied. It takes with it most of the frailties to which it is liable on earth. That the spirit wants to communicate with those on earth is no matter of pleasure. On the contrary. It should be weaned from such attachment."

As for the medium, it is a matter of positive knowledge to me that those within my experience have been deranged or disabled for practical work while they were holding or thought they were holding such communications."

Meanest Thief
Mena, Ark., Dec. 11.—Citizens of this little city are on the lookout for the meanest thief in the Ozark region, who recently robbed George Counterman, blind and crippled.

The blind man was robbed of his only pair of pants and $17 in cash. Counterman was saving the money to pay taxes on a little home he owns near Cove.

A system of canals to connect the Elbe, Older and Danube rivers has been planned by the government of Czechoslovakia.

Caveman Home From Wilderness

Burt McConnell, just back from nine weeks of life as a primitive man in the Quebec wilderness. He entered the wilderness 300 miles above Quebec, naked, except for a running suit and without hunting or camping equipment, beyond a small axe and a camera. This is how he appeared when he snapped a picture of himself in the woods of Normandine in the Province of Quebec. At the left, he is being welcomed home by his wife as he returned to their New York home.

HOOVER NAMES DIPLOMAT FOR NAVY PURPOSE

Choice of W. R. Castle Unusual Procedure; Goes to Japan

Washington, Dec. 11.—President Hoover's somewhat unusual action in appointing Assistant Secretary of State William R. Castle, Jr., as special ambassador to Japan for the period of the London Naval Conference served to emphasize today that there may be rough waters ahead in the adjustment of the Japanese cruiser ratio.

Castle is an able and experienced diplomat and thoroughly conversant with the controversial naval problems that will arise in London. The mere fact that he is being sent on a journey to Tokyo for two months' duty is in itself eloquent testimony as to the difficulties presented by Japan's demand for increased cruiser ratio.

Japan is Keystone. The whole delicate structure of the cruiser relationship between Great Britain and the United States so carefully worked out by President Hoover and Premier MacDonald, may be said to rest upon the willingness of Japan to go along.

Thus far Japan has not indicated that she cared to complacently accept the ratio assigned her, which is six to ten, and on the contrary has evidenced her determination to stand out at London for a ratio of seven instead of six.

While the United States alone might be willing to waive the point in Japan's favor, the complications of the Hoover-MacDonald agreement are such that it is not believed Great Britain could waive it without inviting serious trouble with the dominion governments of Australia and New Zealand.

Agreement Cited. As worked out by Mr. Hoover and Mr. MacDonald, the cruiser agreement calls for Great Britain to have a slight superiority in total cruiser tonnage, which is to be offset by the United States having a slight superiority over Great Britain in the 10,000-ton class, newer, faster, and more powerful ships.

The United States is to have either 18 or 21 ships of this 10,000-ton class, as compared to Britain's 15.

Japan's insistence upon 70 per cent of the American cruiser strength would, if successful, give her 13 or 15 of these cruisers, or what amounts to actual superiority over the British in far eastern waters where Britain has many interests. This would be certain to invite a howl from Australia and New Zealand.

Thus the whole cruiser structure, erected by President Hoover and Premier MacDonald, after much labor and negotiation, may depend upon the Powers' ability to convince Japan that she should be satisfied with the lesser ratio.

Washington, Dec. 11.—The navy today took formal possession of its first 10,000-ton cruiser of the eight authorized in 1924, when the Salt Lake City was placed in commission at the Philadelphia navy yard.

Captain Frederick L. Oliver took her over from the builder, the American Brown Boveri Electric Corporation, of Camden, N. J., and became her first commander.

Hold Couple After Dry Agent's Death

Cushing, Okla., Dec. 11.—Authorities today are holding John Young, a negro and his wife, in connection with a liquor raid yesterday in the negro section of Cushing, Okla., in which Otto P. Butler, 35, a government prohibition agent, was killed and George Danhour, another prohibition agent, was seriously wounded.

Both men were stationed at Enid, Okla., and had gone to Cushing to make several raids.

Butler was shot to death and Danhour was wounded in the right shoulder by bullets which Danhour said were fired by John Young and his wife. The shots which killed Butler were said to have been fired by the negro's wife.

SENATE MAY ACT ON PHILIPPINES

Legislation Granting 20-Year-Old Prayer of Islands Scheduled To Face Congress Next Year

Washington, Dec. 11.—Legislation granting the 20-year-old prayer of the Philippine Islands for independence today had become a distinct possibility in the present session of congress as the result of a long and quiet campaign by American backers of the movement.

The legislation will originate in the senate early in the new year, with prospects the fight will be carried to the house in the spring according to present plans.

Sen. Watson (R) of Indiana, majority leader of the senate, predicted the senate will not only consider the legislation after January 1, but added it would pass the senate.

With other powers in the senate rallying to the Watson conclusion, a movement has been launched in the south to organize a western-southern coalition for forcing the issue to a vote. The old "farm bloc," which proved its power in the house in the McNary-Haugen fight, may be organized again.

Alleged "Live Man" Subject of Trials

Batesville, Ark., Dec. 11.—Developments in the murder case alleging Connie Franklin, Ozark wood-cutter, to have been a victim of five men on the night of March 9, this year, began to take definite form today for the first time since Connie "returned from the grave" last Saturday.

A statement was issued at Batesville, by William Thompson, deputy prosecuting attorney, declaring that the state would permit the case to go to trial on Monday, Dec. 16, and attempt to prove that Connie Franklin was murdered on March 9.

Five men are being held in the stone county jail at Mountain View charged with the murder of Franklin. The fate of the five men depends on the ability of "Franklin" to make the jury believe that he is Connie Franklin and not an imposter.

The defense will center its attack on the fact that Franklin is still alive.

REFRIGERATION NEED IN HOMES

Suggestion for Christmas Gift Made by Citizens Ice Plant Head

Christmas giving that looks beyond the pleasure of the moment is finding increasing favor, according to W. W. Tolerton of the Citizens Ice and Coal company.

"What can be of greater service or more lasting benefit than a good refrigerator?" Tolerton asks. "There is nothing more romantic about it, but a gift that, for years and years to come, brings daily blessings to the family circle has a great deal to recommend it in this modern age—especially when the home has so much competition for the time and attention of the young folk."

"The holiday season is an appropriate time to see what a difference the use of ice can make in the home. Not only food is more delicious in households that have good ice refrigeration, but table service can be made much more attractive. A refrigerator with ample ice capacity provides plenty of ice for the various table uses that are becoming so popular in better homes everywhere. It is a wise parent who sees that meals are served at home in the same inviting way they are served in the finest hotels and most fashionable restaurants."

"It costs so little to have generous pieces of ice tinkling merrily in the glasses—cracked ice making butter, olives and celery enticing—crushed ice giving a tempting chill to the fruit and seafood cocktails, salads and desserts.
"Cold alone will not keep food at its best. But ice in a good refrigerator does. It provides a constant, automatic circulation of cold, clean, fresh air—neither too dry, nor too moist, but just as nature requires for safely keeping the healthful juices and delicious flavors of meat, fruit and vegetables. Food colors are absorbed by the film of meltage on the ice cake and are constantly eliminated through the outlet."

Dirt In Brushes of Magneto May Cause Auto's Sudden Stop
It frequently happens that an automobile will stop suddenly and all attempts to "make it go" will prove ineffective. Battery and all other parts of the ignition, the magneto and spark plugs, seem to be in good condition and yet the car will not "spark."

In this case, states Leo Beall, Battery service, Penn Ave., the fault probably lies in the contact brushes of the magneto. A small particle of dirt getting under the contact-brush will effectively stop the car.

Modern Lubricating System For Automobiles Installed at Community Service Station

A new system of motor car lubrication, one that eliminates guesswork at the grease rack, has been announced by Virgil L. Battin, of the Community Service Station, East State St. Prepared with the assistance of every large automobile manufacturer in the industry the new arrangement insures complete and scientifically correct lubrication for the entire chassis and motor of every American-built passenger car.

"Nothing is more important," in passenger car lubrication than that every single lubrication point should receive the proper kind and amount of lubricant at regular intervals," Battin explained today. "Naturally, every attempt is made to see that no lubrication points are overlooked while a car is on the grease rack. But the number and variety of cars on the road today make it almost impossible to prevent a certain amount of guesswork. Unless a man knows every detail of every car, it is difficult to make sure that nothing has been overlooked—that every grease fitting and bearing has had attention."

Insures Absolute Accuracy
"The new system we have just adopted is known as 'Chek-Chart—the Grease Rite System.' It practically puts a factory-trained lubrication engineer at the elbow of the man who is going over your car. It points out to him all lubrication points and the kind of lubrication for each one and leaves no room for his possibly making a mistake."

"This 'Chek-Chart System' consists of a book of big, legible lubrication charts of every passenger car made, including the very latest as well as models several years old. The charts were carefully prepared in collaboration with factory service engineers and are absolutely correct in every detail."

"Every point on the car requiring lubrication is numbered and located by an arrow on the diagram of the chassis. Beneath the diagram these numbers are listed in order with the name of every part, opposite its number as well as the character of lubrication that particular part should receive."

How System Operates
"When your car goes on the grease rack the operator turns to the proper chart, checks it with the serial number on the car to insure absolute identification. Then, starting with No. 1—usually the left front spring bolt—works right around the car, treating each point in order and missing none."

"The charts show the capacities of crankcase, transmission and differential. Even the inflation pressure and the capacity of the cooling system are plainly indicated on them. Not a single important factor has been overlooked in their preparation."

"So, as the life and service of a motor car depend on the care and thoroughness with which it is lubricated," concludes Battin, "we now have a system that enables us to guarantee a greasing and oiling job to be as complete and efficient as it would be done at the factory where the car was built."

Custom of Bathing Condemned When First Introduced in U. S.

The first bathroom known to modern history was uncovered in the city of Chios, on the island of Crete and was used as far back as 4,000 years ago. J. R. Stratton, well known Salem plumber explained today in tracing back the interesting history of the plumbing industry. The ruins of a much later model, dating back only 2,500 years, have been found in Thirus, a Grecian city.

The Greeks were not the first to use tubs or bowls, as they were in reality for bathing. Stratton explained. The bowls were merely overgrown punch bowls, rested on pedestals four feet high, holding enough water for a bath but not enough to hold a bather. The latter stood on a stone slab, dipped water from the tub or bowl and poured it over his body. The Greeks regarded warm water as "weakening" and took only cold baths.

"More than 3,000 years after Moses went up into the Biblical mountain and forgot to come back," Stratton explains, "John Wesley, a noted teacher, was riding along a road in England and came upon the dirty village of Burslem. In Burslem lived a poor potter named Josiah Wedgwood who later became the richest man in England and the grandfather of Charles Darwin, the world's greatest scientist."

Wedgwood had a lot to do with the inception of the bathtub into world cleanliness, for he moulded tubs and forced his fellow residents of Burslem to cultivate the bath habit."

Romans Had Bath Habit
"The Romans had the bath habit and called it Therma, meaning heat. Rome knew only two classes of people, the washed and unwashed, and then, as now, the unwashed were crowded beyond the pale of society. The largest Therma occupied a square mile of ground. It accommodated 3,200 bathers at a time and besides hot and cold baths, provided dressing rooms, gymnasiums, lecture halls and other modern equipment."

Albany—Approximately 300 grade crossings will be eliminated in New York state in 1930 at a cost of $43,960,000, according to plans just completed by the public service commission.

A rubber tip has been invented for chair rockers to prevent them injuring other furniture, baseboards or ankles.

IOWA ACCUSES OHIO STATE OF "BUYING" ELMER MAREK, GRID STAR

Disgruntled Hawkeyes Secure Affidavits As Basis For New Charge

Columbus, Dec. 11.—Things are perking up in Ohio sporting circles today and Iowa, which was recently ousted from the then "Big Ten," is greatly responsible for most of the activity.

Affidavits, purporting to show that Elmer Marek, former Ohio State university gridiron star, had received $200 a month in cash for attending the college, were made public by some interested Iowans.

It is supposed to be the first of a number of attacks which the disgruntled Hawkeyes will launch against western conference schools. No one here seems to be worried by Iowa's allegations today. In the first place Marek left school in 1927 and the charges are just two years late.

L. W. St. John, athletic director at Ohio State, said that no one connected with the Buckeye school could possibly have made such an offer to Marek without his knowledge and that there was no inducement of any kind extended to the football player.

He said he had had a copy of the affidavit for six months and ended by intimating that the Iowans were "all wet," as the expression goes.

Charges Unconfirmed
He pointed out that the eligibility committee of the conference had passed on the charges against Marek and found them to be unfounded.

According to reports from the western school, the students and faculty of Iowa are not mourning the severance of relations with the Western conference, but that they feel Iowa will make a better showing playing other large non-conference schools.

No other "Big Ten" school feels any antipathy towards the Iowans. But if the western aggregation continues to hurl charges around they may touch a sore spot and cause some feeling of ire to exist.

Meanwhile, reports at Athens that the Iowans are seeking to schedule Ohio university, are gaining credence. The tilt, if played, will probably take place on October 4, next year. The Bobcats would also consider a mole skin battle with St. Xavier, one of the strongest teams in Ohio.

In face of its perfect record last year, the Athens county school would have more than even chances against the Musketeers on the gridiron.

Fight Results

At New York—Lenox S. C.—Kid Chocolate, Cuba, knocked out Herman Silverberg, New York, in the first round (10).

Lew Hurley, Harlem, won 6-round decision over Benny Salacco, Harlem.

Mike Caldero, New York, knocked out Jim Murdoch, New York in the fifth round (6).
Broadway Arena—Young Zazzarino, Jersey City, knocked out Ralph Esposito, New York, in the first round (10).

Johnny Krieger, New York, knocked out Jack Seagan, in the third round (6).

At Reading—Gaby Bagdad, New York won an 8-round decision over Joe Kuhns, New York.

Mickey Polo, Reading, knocked out Jim Collins, Philadelphia, in the fourth round.

Art Peeser, Lebanon, knocked out Pete Klept, Tamaqua, in the fifth round.

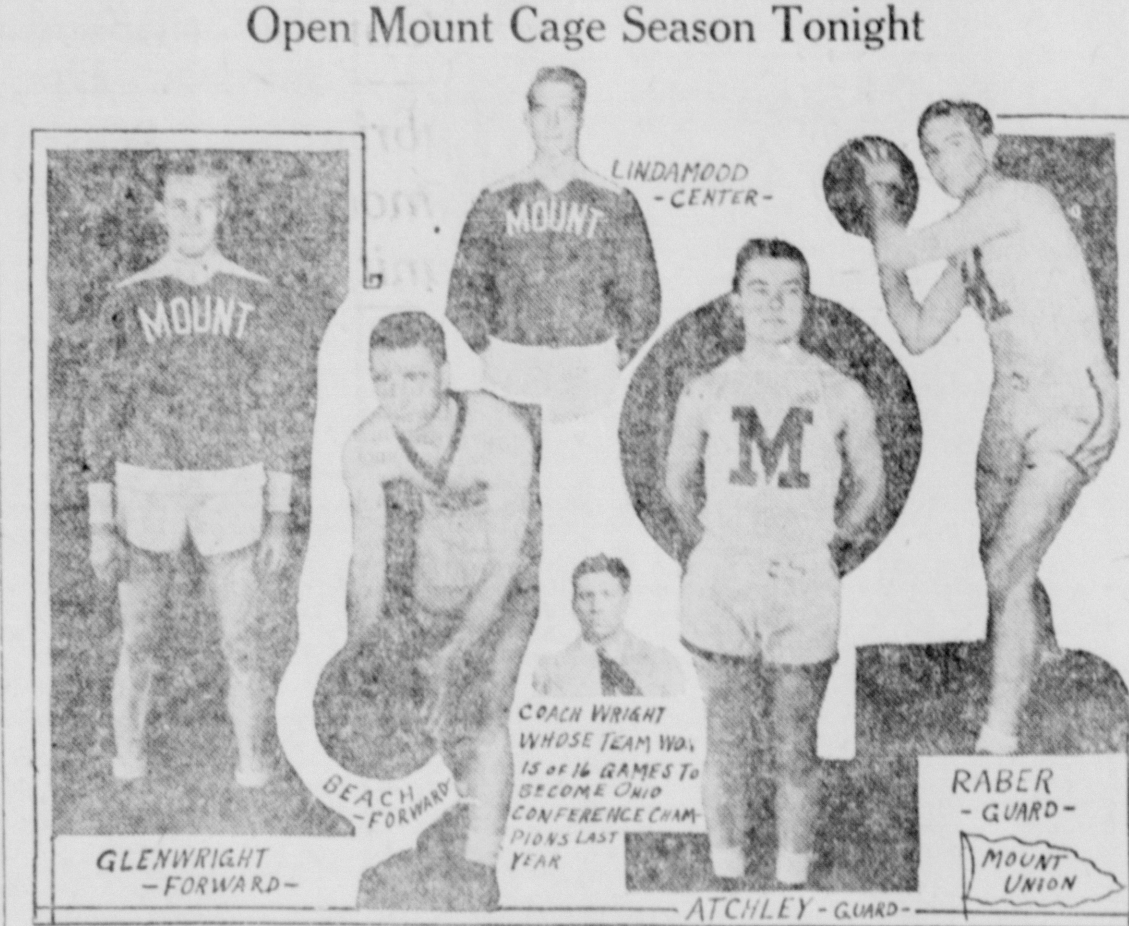

At Flint—Jimmy Goodrich, Buffalo, knocked out Johnny Ciccone, Schenectady, in the eighth round (10).

Lisbon, Dec. 11.—The Lisbon Athletic club will sponsor an amateur boxing show to be held here December 21. Amateur boxers from Columbiana, Mahoning and Stark counties are eligible to compete. Anyone wishing to enter the tournament should write D. E. Evans, Lisbon, O.

75 Tons of Seed Shipped To China

Boston, Dec. 6.—Seventy-five tons of seed to aid famine-stricken farmers and the starving women and children was shipped to North Carolina for distribution by Leonard M. Outerbridge, young American agricultural missionary, loaned by the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions to the China Famine Relief Commission. This was the second such shipment of seed, and included 50,000 pounds each of kaffir corn, milo maize, and feterita. The first shipment sent in September was only 52,000 pounds. The total value

Open Mount Cage Season Tonight

Alliance.—Leo Grimes, one of Mount Union's most promising basketball prospects from the sophomore class, sustained an injury to his right knee at practice, which will prevent him from going on the floor tonight when the Purple cagers go to Akron to meet the Firestone quintette.

Opening their pre-season schedule the men pictured above will probably start the battle at Akron. There is some speculation as to who will compose Coach Wright's first team because of the lack of veteran returns but it is likely that a number of substitutions will be made in this opener not only to give new men a try out but also to find the best combination.

Fans may get some surprises even though Mount Union does not have the strong organization that represented the college last year. Unless sophomore prospects show extraordinary ability in mastering the fine points of the game, the Methuonists stand little chance of presenting a winning organization.

Realizing these facts Coach Robert D. Wright has drilled his men harder than usual and spent Saturday afternoon in practice. He expects a tough starter with the Firestone organization which has been in practice much longer.

Glenwright is a senior, has won letters in two consecutive years, and is the only star left from the championship team that won 15 out of its 16 games last year. Atchley and Devore have had a little experience, just enough to get letters. Lindamood, a probable candidate for center, is a junior. He has not won any letter but should develop into a valuable asset to the team because of his build and athletic ability along other lines. He is six feet four inches tall. Wland is a candidate for center or guard. Raber will play guard or center.

Grimes, who is suffering from a badly injured knee, will not be able to play in the Firestone game on Dec. 11th or in the Goodyear game, December 17.

best suited to withstand drought conditions.

"A bushel of the seed grain selected will plant five of six times the acreage possible with a bushel of seed wheat," reported Outerbridge. "The seeds should provide for sowing about 1,500 American acres."

"We plan to distribute this seed in small quantities on a loan basis. The farmer receiving seed will return an equal amount of grain from the resulting crop, which will thus be available for further distribution another year."

Albany — Industrial accidents claimed the lives of 202 workers in New York state during October, according to data just compiled by Frances Perkins, industrial commissioner.

Plans Completed For Start Of Loop; Eight Contestants Entered

Complete schedule for the first round of the Salem Class A Basketball league were announced today by Raphael Reasback, league referee. The 1929-30 season has its official opening, at the Memorial building gym next Tuesday night when four of the eight contestants for city titular honors compete in two league games.

First games in the circuit will bring together the Art Jewelers in a tussle with the Electric Furnace and a game between the McArtor Florists and the United Cigars. Games will be played every Tuesday and Thursday night of the week.

Eligibility lists of all teams must be compiled by managers and handed in to Joe M. Kelley, sponsor of the league, not later than Thursday. Each team is allowed 10 players, several managers already having completed arrangements for their team personnel and have submitted them to Kelley for the final approval.

Predicts Success
Everything points to another successful season, Kelley stated today.

First games will start promptly at 7:30 with Reasback officiating. Reasback handled all league contests for the past two seasons. Teams must be on the floor ready for action at the set time while those scheduled for the second game must be on hand and ready to play immediately after the expiration of the opener.

Only four of the eight teams who competed in last year's loop are again participating. These are the United Cigars, McArtor Florists, Electric Furnace and the Printz Klub. Incoming teams are the Golden Eagles, Art Jewelers, Grate-Overlands and Eagles.

Thursday's Games
The Overlands clash with the Printz Klub in next Thursday night's openers, while the Eagles and Golden Eagle combine clash in the closing event.

Each of the teams has gathered together what is considered the cream of the city's cage talent. Some managers started explorations for players as early as three months ago and had their teams all set 10 days ago. Every aggregation at present has its full quota of players.

The iron-clad ruling that no team can make changes in team lists unless approved by the league supervisors has again been adopted and will be strictly enforced. All disputes will be brought before the board, composed of Homer Bow, editor of The News; A. E. Beardmore and Lawrence Reasback. The schedule for the year follows:

Next Week
Tuesday—Art Jewelers vs. Furnace; Florists vs. Cigars.
Thursday—Grate-Overlands vs. Printz Klub; Eagles vs. Golden Eagles.
Monday, December 23—Jewelers vs. Cigars; Furnace vs. Florists.
Thursday, December 26—Overlands vs. Eagles; Printz Klub vs. Golden Eagle.
December 30—Jewelers vs. Florists; Furnace vs. Cigars.
January 2—Printz Klub vs. Eagles; Overlands vs. Golden Eagle.
January 7—Jewelers vs. Overlands; Furnace vs. Eagles.
January 9—Cigars vs. Printz Klub; Florists vs. Golden Eagle.
January 14—Jewelers vs. Printz Klub; Furnace vs. Eagles.
January 16—Overlands vs. Florists; Cigars vs. Golden Eagle.
January 21—Jewelers vs. Eagles; Furnace vs. Golden Eagle.
January 21—Jewelers vs. Eagles; Furnace vs. Golden Eagle.
January 23—Florists vs. Printz Klub; Cigars vs. Overlands.
January 28—Furnace vs. Overlands; Jewelers vs. Golden Eagle.
January 30—Cigars vs. Printz Klub; Florists vs. Eagles.
All team managers and members of teams are requested to clip this schedule and keep it on file, handy for reference.

President of American League Warns Baseball World Against "Chain-Store"; Suggests Drafts

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, Dec. 11.—Like the chappie who hit himself on the head with a hammer because it felt so good when he stopped, the major league "farm" or "chain-store" operator cannot long survive without one thing or the other. His immediate need is education. If he doesn't recognize this, his future need is bound to be a new head.

The baseball "chain-store" system is a menace to nobody, except the man who operates it, and to him, it is business suicide.

This, in substance, was the message to baseball of President E. S. Barnard, of the American League, as the two majors went into furious session again today. They had found nothing to do yesterday, so they decided they needed a little extra time this afternoon in which to finish the job in a thoroughly competent manner.

Tomorrow, however, they are to induce in their annual joint session and it is then that Mr. Barnard may deliver him of the deplorable warning to the St. Louis Cardinals, the New York Yankees and all those who operate minor league "stores," either extensively or otherwise. Others have feared the effect on baseball of the so-called monopolies in the minor league field. It has remained for Mr. Barnard to express apprehension for the operators themselves.

Invite Disaster
"They are inviting disaster," he said, "and they will get it. The system is uneconomic, unstable. It means ultimate ruin. I ought to know because we have three excellent minor league franchises here and almost die on us when I was president of the Cleveland Club. It is like the work of Japanese primers. They till the soil so thoroughly that there is nothing left in it after a couple of years. So much for the reaction to the farm itself."

"Now then, what does the operator get out of it in player material? Often enough the players he needs are with clubs that are not under his control. He has to go elsewhere to buy when the theory of farm operation is that it makes the owner self-sufficient. We have only to study the effect of the system to know that it does nothing of the kind."

"Meantime, what pride can the minor league fan have in the club of his town when it is constantly changing its personnel almost from day to day? He sees an infielder he likes on Monday. Two days later, the man has disappeared, either to go up to the major league owner or to some other club in the chain. That sort of thing kills local following. Outside ownership does its share of this, too. The town fans figure that the franchise is being operated for the outside owner's benefit and not for their's. They can't help but think that way when they see a half dozen players pushed into the out of town in as many days. I could quote the names of minor league franchises that are expiring under this system. But I won't. They are having too hard a time, as it is, without calling attention to the fact."

Suggests Remedy
Having thus pointed to the cause, Mr. Barnard then suggested the remedy. It is the universal draft.

"They wouldn't be bothered trying to develop men in their own particular process, if everybody could come in there poaching at the end of the season and draft the men they fancied," he declared. "That's the only thing we can do about it—make their position untenable."

"We can't make them sell their clubs; indeed, so greatly have some of those holdings depreciated, they might find trouble in selling. We can't even make them see that this fact is significant. All we can do is try to protect them against themselves."

Mr. Barnard didn't add any information as to how he hoped to make some of the die-hard minors accept the universal draft. This will be a good trick, even if he never does it.

AT THE GRAND

Charles (Buddy) Rogers, young juvenile-hero, and Nancy Carroll, are seen and heard in their second co-featured all-talking picture, "Illusion," at the Grand Theatre.

Rogers is a young magician who had learned his stage tricks through an early up-bringing in the circus. Nancy Carroll is the girl who was raised in the same environment and who is his partner in their successful stage act. She is in love with him. But Buddy, through his charm and suave appearance, gets himself invited to the parties and fetes of gay Park Avenue society. He falls for a wealthy heiress, played by June Collyer. Meanwhile Nancy becomes disconsolate, and in the same mean while Buddy learns the true story of Buddy's background. She tells Buddy she can never marry him.

He goes to a theatre where Nancy is playing the old act with a new partner. The thrilling climax of the act comes. Four rifles blaze at Nancy. Their lead bullets for which she was supposed to have substituted harmless graphite ones by a sleight-of-hand trick, ring through the air toward their human target. Nancy is struck. She collapses.

It is entertainment with every value that the talking screen can give.

"BIG TIME"

Both new and old faces are seen in "Big Time," the excellent Fox Movietone all talking comedy drama of back stage and behind movie sets which closes its engagement at the Royal tonight.

Lee Tracy, Mae Clarke and Josephine Dunn who enact the leading roles, make their first screen appearance in this picture. They are supported by others whose names and faces are more familiar, Daphne Pollard, Stepin Fetchit and a number of others.

Tracy who was the stage star of "Broadway" for nearly three seasons and who played the lead in "The Front Page" and made more stage history, portrays the role of a small time and conceited boffer, while Miss Clarke appears as his wife.

Miss Pollard and the inimitable Fetchit, dark laughmaker of the screen, furnish the comedy.

Miss Dunn portrays the role of Gloria, who leads the hooper a merry chase, away from his wife, then drops him when luck turns.

AT THE STATE

Five "big shots" of the stage who have made good in talking pictures are appearing at the State theater in "A Most Immoral Lady."

Leatrice Joy, of stock, vaudeville and motion picture starrng fame, is featured in the title role. Walter Pidgeon, Sidney Blackmer, Josephine Dunn and Robert Edson are other stage favorites in the picture, heading an all-star film cast.

A charming and very modern love story between the heroine and an intended victim of her wiles is evolved in "A Most Immoral Lady," and from beginning to end the plot is well-knit, full of suspense, and surprising without being in the least illogical. The dialogue sparkles with humor, and there's music, song and dance in it.

Pidgeon does some piano playing and singing and so does Miss Joy, while Parisian cafe sequences bubble over with pretty girls and champagne. The initial locale is Palm Beach, and an intermediate sequence is laid in New York City.

Youth's Rheumatism Quickly Routed By Owa-Ton-Na

East Canton Lad's Limbs Swollen Terribly — Could Not Be Moved For Pain

MASTER CARL SMITH

A particularly remarkable case where Owa-Ton-Na has again proved itself master of a pitiful case of rheumatism is that of Master Carl Smith, R. D. No. 2, E. Canton, Ohio, 13-year-old son of Mr. Bart Smith. Carl was confined to his bed. Pains were so severe in his limbs that he could hardly bear the weight of the bed covers. Imagine the intense suffering day and night of a condition where joints feel as though molten lead had been poured on them. Feet swollen to twice normal size, each movement meant suffering, which almost made one cry out.

Carl's father said: "Imagine the joy to be experienced when just one bottle was necessary to entirely overcome this condition. It is surprising the way Owa-Ton-Na does its work. It just seems to cleanse the system from top to bottom. Within a short time the swelling started to leave, pains grew less, and once again Carl became comfortable and now within just a few short weeks, he is here with me to tell you about the good Owa-Ton-Na has done."

So one after another come stories of praise where Owa-Ton-Na has relieved suffering. Many times this suffering has been going on for years and hope almost lost, yet Owa-Ton-Na accomplishes results even in such cases. Owa-Ton-Na is sold in Salem at Fioding's, Bolger & French and J. H. Lease Drug Stores.—Adv.

"Konjola Helped Me Wonderfully," Says This Man

New Medicine Brings Quick Relief In Stubborn Case Of Rheumatism.

MR. HARRY DUKE

"Konjola certainly has helped me wonderfully and I feel that others should know of the results it has given me," said Mr. Harry Duke, 726 Kerr street, Columbus, Ohio. "I had been suffering from rheumatism for a number of years. The pains centered in my right hip and was so intense that at times I had to lay off from work. Constipation was another ailment that caused me much misery."

"Upon the recommendation of a friend I started taking Konjola, and four bottles brought wonderful relief. My bowels were regulated and I could almost feel the poisons being swept from my system. Daily the rheumatic pains became less severe. I know that in a few more weeks I will be entirely free from that, too. It is a pleasure to endorse such a splendid medicine as I have found Konjola to be."

Konjola is sold in Salem at all J. H. Lease drug stores, (Mr. Kaminsky) and by all the best druggists throughout this entire section.—Adv.
